"Out of the abundance of the heart"

Recently, we have come across two quotations from speeches made by supposedly great men of America.

One is the nominee of the Democratic Party, and the other, the nominee of the Republican Party.

We quote these statements because of the revelation of the respective men, and on the strength of them alone, have found it easy to arrive at a decision.

"I do not believe the Democratic Party should camouflage on this subject. The Democratic Party is a saloon party, and everybody knows it is a saloon party, and it ought to come out and say so."

—Alfred E. Smith.
Address New York City, April 24th, 1922.

"By these experiences (as Secretary of Commerce) I have observed the burdens and responsibilities of the greatest office in the world. That office touches the happiness of every home, it deals with the peace of nations, no man could think of it except in terms of colossal corporation."

—Herbert Hoover.
Message to Chairman Moses, June 1928.

No wonder it is therefore, that last April, the thirty-five colleges and universities participating in a national poll, gave Hoover an overwhelming majority.

Grayling Gun Club was well represented at the Cadillac trap shoot Sunday and carried away a number of prizes. Although the day was hot it didn't keep some of our more enthusiastic shooters away. Those from Grayling in attendance were as follows:

Esbern Hanson, Marius Hanson, A. E. Michelson, O. W. Hanson, Carl Mickelson, Halger Hanson, J. W. Hartwick and Nels and Frank Michelson, Jr.

Esbern Hanson carried away a prize and $15 in cash; Marius Hanson, a prize; O. W. Hanson, a prize and $5 in cash; Carl Mickelson, $15 in cash; Nels Michelson, a prize and J. W. Hartwick, a cash prize.

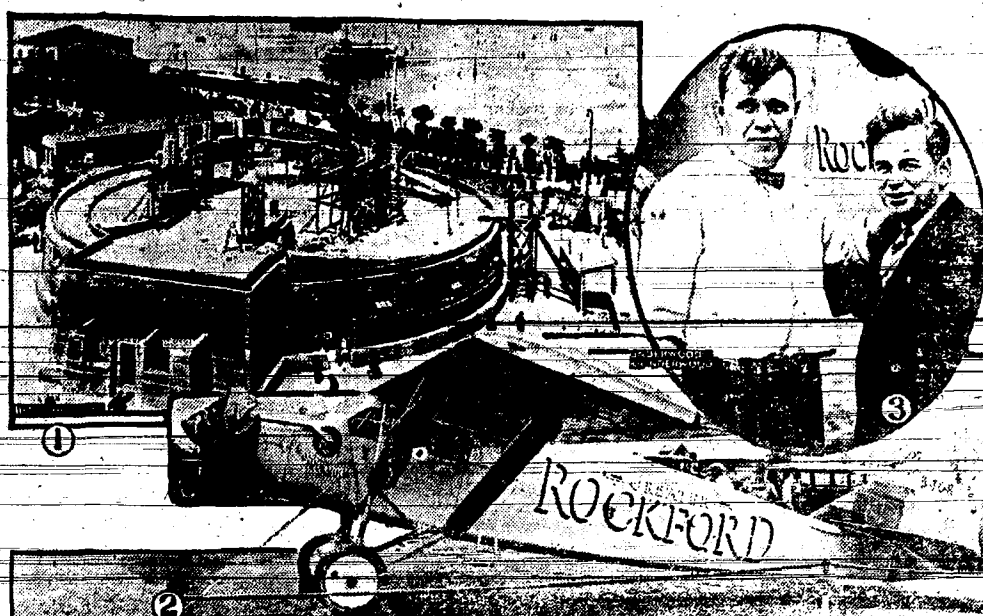

There was a very good attendance at the shoot considering the hot weather. Those attending say they were well entertained and thoroughly enjoyed the day.

Grayling Club holds shoots every Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and on Sundays at 10:00 a. m. Everyone enjoying that class of sport will always be welcome, whether they are members of the Club or not.

VILLAGE TAXES DUE

I am ready to collect taxes for the Village, and may be found at my store every day from 9:00 a. m. to 8:00 p. m.

HERLUF SORENSON,
Village Treasurer.

1—Votive temple being erected in Venice in fulfillment of a vow by the people made to the Madonna if she would spare their city from aerial bombardments during the war. 2—Alphonse Chatter, Rockford, in which Capt. Russell and Parker Cramer with attempt to fly from Rockford, Ill., to Stockholm. 3—Pilots Russell and Cramer.

WALTER L. MAIN CIRCUS COMING

Will give two performances. Monday street parade to be held at 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

With the arrival in town of Karl Knudson, contracting agent of the Walter L. Main Circus, arrangements have been completed with officials and local merchants for the parade and exhibition of this old-time favorite in Grayling, Mich. Thursday, August 2nd, 1928.

Mr. Knudson carries letters from Chambers of Commerce organizations, Mayors and City Clerks of various cities where the show has exhibited this season, endorsing the entertainment offered, and commenting on the high class personnel of the organization; in many instances, welcoming the show back at its earliest convenience.

He is very emphatic in his denial that circus parades have been abandoned, and claims that while one circus is too stingy to give a street parade, his managers have taken the opposite view, and have increased the street parade of the Walter L. Main circus.

DOES IT PAY?

The summer season, now at hand, brings with it a new and different kind of business.

It is the itinerant peddler, the house-to-house doorbell-ringer and those imposing on the credulity of the unthinking citizen.

And this and which always turn out to be inferior merchandise sold at higher prices or in short measure. It is well to beware of these fellows and the plausible stories that they tell to engage the interest and confidence of their prospects.

They are of many varieties and with as many kinds of merchandise to sell.

Inferior articles of many kinds are peddled about higher and higher during the summer months. The automobile has been a great and to this kind of itinerancy for after he has landed a few valuable prospects a day's journey will take him far away and beyond the reach of the buyer who discovers that he has been victimized.

What better insurance can there be than buying from the home town merchant? If for any reason the article proves unsatisfactory he is ready and willing to correct the trouble and satisfy his customer. Not so with the peddler. THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1928

IT IS becoming exceedingly dangerous to drive on U. S. 37 in the down-town district, due to the fast driving. Autos go thru town at high rates of speed, and where traffic is so heavy as it is in that part of the city, it is a great wonder that many serious accidents haven't already occurred. We may count ourselves lucky in escaping them. But that does not assure us that we are always going to be so fortunate. The speed limit in town is 20 miles per hour, and it isn't unreasonable to ask drivers to adhere to the law. At least stopping them on the streets should be stopped before someone loses his life or serious accident is done. The time saved by speeding for the short distance thru town is a little that it is hardly worth mentioning. Let's have a little more sane driving in the down-town district of the city.

CONTINUE THE SAFETY CAMPAIGN

Michigan has just concluded a state-wide campaign for safe driving upon the highways. Motorists were asked to see that their cars were in perfect mechanical condition; that they obey the simple rules of the road; to take every precaution that safety and good judgment demanded. This policy closely adhered to will result in cutting down automobile accidents to a minimum. It will be the means of saving many human lives. Company was held, with John Jeff. Now that the campaign is ended, much is left to each individual motorist.

The Whitney-Schram Red Stripe orchestra that is playing at Collen's pavilion this season is a fine orchestra and people of this locality are very fortunate in having such good music. The orchestra is composed of seven pieces—trumpet, banjo, two saxophones, sousaphone, traps and piano. Not only does the orchestra on the whole show unusual talent, but they also offer some very fine solo parts. The personnel of the band is most pleasing which helps to make dancing at Collen's a real pleasure. If you have neither heard nor danced to the Red Stripes make it a point to hear them soon. They play every night at Collen's pavilion with the exception of Thursday when they play at Gayland, where they are enjoying large crowds.

COUNTRY PRESS READERS

Washington, D. C.—It was on the roof garden at Willard Hotel. The discussion was as to the value of the country as against the metropolitan newspaper. At one side of the table sat one of the ablest advertising men in America, at the other Congressman Tinkham, of Massachusetts. The advertising man was talking about the difference between readers and circulation. This may seem a curious matter for debate for it is a general assumption that of course if a paper circulates that it is read but that is just what does not happen, the advertising man claimed.

"Congressman," he said, "you have read the morning newspapers?"

"Yes," said Tinkham, "I have read a Washington, and three New York papers. I do it every day."

"Alas," said the questioner, "now tell me the three leading stories which attracted your attention."

There was a pause and finally Tinkham agreed that apart from the banana pie he did not know as he could name more than two.

"That proves it," said the advertising man. "You are a circulation advertiser but not a reader. And your attitude is the attitude of the average city man towards his city newspapers. You skim you don't read. Now the country newspapers are read through and through, advertisements and news, and that is what makes them the real advertising medium of the country."

"I guess," said Tinkham, after a pause, "you are right but I had not thought of it that way."

Education in France

Primary education is compulsory for all French children from six to thirteen; those who do not attend the government schools are obliged to prove that they receive proper tuition either in private school or at home.

He hung on and begged and argued the question until in sheer desperation his victims signed on the dotted line. I have been called on once a year for more than a score of years by the most perfect salesman I have ever known. I heard a few weeks ago that he was dead and I am truly sorry. He never urged me to buy; he never even brought up the subject of my buying.

He made an appointment with me in advance for a definite time, and while, as clockwork, he appeared before me, pointing out the particular merits of this or that, and he did it all quickly, courteously, and with a subtle appeal which I was never able to resist, but it wasn't a forced sale.

When he went away I felt that he had done me a service.

AFFAIRS IN WASHINGTON

(By Congressman Roy D. Woodruff.)

Having cleared my desk of accumulated matters that have kept me in Washington since the adjournment of Congress, I am leaving for Michigan and will be in the District from about the 12th of July until after the general elections in November. My address in Bay City will be 701 Center Avenue, but I have arranged to keep my Washington Office open during the summer for the convenience of constituents who may have matters they wish attended to by my office there, which is in direct contact with the government departments continuously. I expect to visit all the counties in the district from time to time and to meet as many as possible at each place my itinerary takes me. It is only by establishing and maintaining the closest possible contact with constituents that a member of Congress can effectively represent them in Congress, and I cordially invite suggestions and advice from all whom I meet or with whom I correspond.

Recently I have been receiving a great many postcards from farmers in the district, recommending an increase in tariff duties on agricultural commodities that compete with American farm products, and am heartily in sympathy with the views expressed therein. The American farmer has much to contend with, and many handicaps in bringing forth a satisfactory crop. He is compelled to buy whatever he purchases in an American market at the American price, and certainly he is entitled to the American market and the American price for his commodities. I believe that if we place our tariff rates high enough on these products, American prices will prevail for the things the farmer produces. This principle has been applied successfully in favor of business and industry, which have prospered marvelously, and in my opinion there is no reason why Agriculture should not be similarly benefited by a high tariff on its products.

FORCED SALES

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

I THINK of all the salesmen who come upon one unexpectedly and try to persuade one to buy, the book agent through all time has been the most unpopular. I suppose the reason is that few people have any innate longing for books and especially for such books as the salesman going from door to door is trying to dispose of. If he is to be successful he must first create an interest and a desire and then attempt to satisfy it. This requires tact, knowledge of human nature, and how it is influenced, and, of course, persistence, and this last quality is ordinarily all that the wandering salesman of books has developed. If he succeeds in making a sale it is usually a forced sale.

Webster was selling me not long ago something of his experience while in college. He went out during his summer vacation to sell books. He had never had any experience before and he knew nothing of salesmanship excepting to hang on when he got hold of a prospective customer. The territory to which he was assigned was a pretty barren rural community in which the drought of summer bade fair to wipe out the corn crop.

The book he was trying to sell had no particular merit. The people to whom he was attempting to sell it did not want it, if they were persuaded to buy it in order to get rid of Webster.

It would most probably be with the family Bible on the center table in the sitting room unread and useless. Anyway they could not afford to buy it, and Webster knew this as he looked about him better possibly than any other man.

Webster was successful in making a forced sale he felt as if he had robbed an orphan asylum or snatched a blind man. Webster got away with the job, however. He hung on and begged and argued the question until in sheer desperation his victims signed on the dotted line. He was broadcast as a salesman de luxe and his picture was displayed in the advertising of the company for whom he was working, and yet it was really poor salesmanship which he exhibited.

He made an appointment with me in advance for a definite time, and while, as clockwork, he appeared before me, pointing out the particular merits of this or that, and he did it all quickly, courteously, and with a subtle appeal which I was never able to resist, but it wasn't a forced sale.

When he went away I felt that he had done me a service.

AFFAIRS IN WASHINGTON

(By Congressman Roy D. Woodruff.)

Having cleared my desk of accumulated matters that have kept me in Washington since the adjournment of Congress, I am leaving for Michigan and will be in the District from about the 12th of July until after the general elections in November. My address in Bay City will be 701 Center Avenue, but I have arranged to keep my Washington Office open during the summer for the convenience of constituents who may have matters they wish attended to by my office there, which is in direct contact with the government departments continuously. I expect to visit all the counties in the district from time to time and to meet as many as possible at each place my itinerary takes me. It is only by establishing and maintaining the closest possible contact with constituents that a member of Congress can effectively represent them in Congress, and I cordially invite suggestions and advice from all whom I meet or with whom I correspond.

Recently I have been receiving a great many postcards from farmers in the district, recommending an increase in tariff duties on agricultural commodities that compete with American farm products, and am heartily in sympathy with the views expressed therein. The American farmer has much to contend with, and many handicaps in bringing forth a satisfactory crop. He is compelled to buy whatever he purchases in an American market at the American price, and certainly he is entitled to the American market and the American price for his commodities. I believe that if we place our tariff rates high enough on these products, American prices will prevail for the things the farmer produces. This principle has been applied successfully in favor of business and industry, which have prospered marvelously, and in my opinion there is no reason why Agriculture should not be similarly benefited by a high tariff on its products.

M. P. A. SUMMER OUTING OF 1928 AT VAN ETTAN LAKE LODGE ENJOYABLE; THREE GLORIOUS DAYS FOR MEMBERS

Visit Saradella Farms, Au Sable River Hydro-Electric Plants, Witness Life-Saving Maneuvers, Enjoy Golf, Fishing, Sports, Games and Dancing, and Make Merry to Their Hearts' Content.

(By Philip T. Rich, Midland, Mich.)

It's all over and the boys are back home rubbing their eyes and wondering if it really was true or could it have been a dream. The trip to Van Ettan lake lodge will go down in the history of Michigan Press Association outings as one of the best ever had by the association.

Rain and more rain could not dampen the spirit of so genial a group of folks gathered from every corner of Michigan to celebrate and "first-class a good time". In fact it helped to bring them into closer social contact and each went home knowing that he knew "Peck" Mack, Bill, Art, Sam, etc., and their respective families lost a little more familiarity than he had ever known them before.

It was a great old session that "Peck" Prescott, Bill McGillicray and W. L. Chappelle engineered and the whole entourage (if that means everybody) was unanimous in voting Frank G. Cowley, the smiling host at Van Ettan lodge, their thanks and the appreciation of the association.

You'd never suspect Mr. Cowley, whose hospitality was unlimited, was in charge of the entire estate with its dozen of varied sports and that he was busy personally seeing to it that their guests could never at any time have cause to even the slightest complaint.

It was Thursday morning when the "Peck" party began arriving in earnest, although an advanced guard had come to the hotel on Wednesday. Thursday proved a fine day for the trip, a few running into rain in the afternoon, but the majority reporting that it was "great driving."

Van Ettan is located two miles north of Oscoda, known particularly for its historic fire which destroyed the major portion of the city as well as its sister town of Au Sable, and the flying field used by Schridger fliers. The lake nestles along the shores of Lake Huron within easy distance of the wild reaches of the Au Sable river and in the heart of northeastern Michigan.

Here 180 of "the boys" and their families dropped "shop" and "cut capers" which would be the envy of any school boy. Herb Wood, Len W. "Peck" Feghtner, Bill Mackay and George Averill had complete possession when the others began to arrive and it is "alleged" that they stayed until the last fish was fished and the final dive was done.

At any rate the crowd scattered in every direction Thursday. Golf, tennis, riding, fishing, boating, dancing, bridge—all had enthusiasts. Late in the afternoon a rainstorm brought most of the newspaper folks back to the hotel and a night of revelry followed.

Friday morning was cloudy and a misty rain started to fall. The official "sports" program began with Ringmaster O. V. Laloyteaux, of Reading, calling off and "let" Rogers of Camden acting the part of "chief clown" and ticket dispenser.

Every one of the events from the winning of Field Manager Len W. Feghtner's trophy to the ball contest against his "high spots" and thrills aplenty. A large gallery attended all events, part of which took place in the hotel and the rest on the "drive". Excellent prizes had been donated for the affair and helped to swell the list of contestants.

In the afternoon a delegation visited the estate of Karl Schmidt, where a specially conducted tour was arranged. The modern dairy plant on the 12,000 acre tract was inspected first. Here dozens of pure bred Holstein cows with high records for milk and butterfat production form one of the finest herds in all Michigan.

Stalls with stambouls and individual drinking fountains where each cow had a name and "tree," telling all about her own records and those of her ancestors, were just a few of the features. The whole place is scrubbed and scraped daily and after looking it all over there was a rush to get the milk served to the aggregation at the cooling plant.

The horses also were kept in equal style and the calves have a barn all their own where they are taught "manners" before being allowed to associate in the higher register of society.

The "road across the lake" leads directly to the main house of the premises and here one winds around until the menagerie is reached. The children of the party were particularly interested in the fine herd of buffalo and elk. There was a tiny calf with each group of animals which attracted the attention of the scribbles and their families.

During the various lulls a bridge tournament was under way in the lodge lobby during the afternoon and evening. Saturday furnished the only perfect day. Hardly a cloud marred the beautiful blue of the northern Michigan sky and it added new vim to the assembly of the newspaper fraternity. A trip to the Sturgeon Point light house and coast guard station was on the official program and a group of 18 cars went there to see Capt. T. H. Tice and his crew of six men put on exhibition drills. The lighthouse was built in 1869 and during the intervening 59 years the great beacon has flashed its guiding light to thousands.

Next Year's Outing

The newspaper folks of the Upper Peninsula want the M. P. A. to come to their domain for the 1929 summer outing. We ought to accept, for two reasons: One is that they want us to come, the other is that there is so much about the upper peninsula that the lower peninsula newspaper men ought to see and know. The upper peninsula is not only a vast domain, but a greatly diversified and intensely interesting one. A tour of the great north land would not only be jolly fun, but would be an eye-opener to most of us.

And of ship captains guiding their vessels through the otherwise unmarked expanses of Lake Huron. A climb to the "light" gave an interesting panorama of the surrounding countryside and lake.

Captain Tice and his men braved the heat of a scorching sun to go into "action" for the weekly publishers. An imaginary stranded ship was located on the beach and the rope for the rescue equipment was fired over the ship by one of a small cannon.

This has a range of a quarter of a mile and is used to take passengers off the boats when the sea is too rough for life boats. Mrs. Ida Kaufman, secretary of the field manager, of Lansing, was the first woman to volunteer for a ride in the breeches buoy. Two others tried to brave the trip over the "sea" but were stranded on the "waves" and the crew was on the point of exhaustion before they could be "rescued."

President W. H. Berkey, Cassopolis, and R. E. Prescott, Lincoln, submitted to being "saved" when the resuscitation tests for drowning were demonstrated. Each survived without serious injuries with the exception of Pres. Berkey claiming the misplacement of a floating rib.

Following a sumptuous dinner and such meals, two have never eaten better—the Consumers Power tour to the Au Sable river dams was in order. The power company had graciously provided two of their instructors, W. E. Jacobs and G. L. Jensen to conduct the party composed of 12 cars along the scenic river.

Footie, Cooke and Five Channels dams were visited. No finer scenery can one imagine than the dun country of the Au Sable where mountains of white sand, green forests and a mighty harnessed river blend into one picture. And what a picture! Words cannot adequately describe the Au Sable. Winding through high hills which are rapidly being reforested the great tumbling river has been made into a series of beautiful lakes.

It is 105 miles by river from the first dam at Mio to the last one known as Footie. The Mio dam has a 25 foot head and its back waters cover 700 acres. Alcona is 50 miles downstream, forms a thousand acre lake and a 50 foot head; Leoni is 19 miles below and its 28 foot head backs the river over 400 acres; Five Channels is a brief 3 1/2 miles away, its lake covering 500 acres; Cook has a 1900 acre pond, 32 foot head and is 16 miles by river from Five Channels; Footie is naturally the "lower end" no matter how it is spelled. It forms a 1000 acre body of water and has a 32 foot head.

The theoretical head for all the dams from Mio to Footie would be 328 feet and the working capacity is little short of that for the dams. Here, a brief step from the jack pine plains and bisecting them, is one of the greatest power units in the state. The electrical energy, generated by the mad rush of the cold waters from the peak of Michoud to Huron, is carried to thousands of industries in every section of the state to say nothing of lighting whole cities and being turned to hundreds of uses.

At Five Channels dam the party, halted for lunch and A. J. Goulette, who is in charge of the river plants, was the host. The party then continued to Van Ettan, some 22 miles through the charming sand trails and along a scenic route with few parallels.

Sunday morning brought showers and the party began to break up, although some of the group remained at the lodge until after dinner.

Before inscribing our "thirty" at the end of this story we cannot help but say that to us it was a wonderful outing, a delightful party, a very turn and it has helped to knit the friendships of the Michigan weekly publishers into an inseparable bond.

DINING ROOM, VAN ETTAN LAKE LODGE

The Feminine Viewpoint

(By Natalie Mackins)

The Van Ettan Lake outing was a decided success in the eyes of the wives and daughters of the Michigan Press, judging from the enthusiasm which they displayed and the enjoyment with which they entered into all the activities of the week end.

Many of the mothers brought their children along and the children became acquainted and enjoyed themselves immensely. The Chet Howells brought their four interesting children with them. The mothers that left their children at home had the joy of recounting the recent achievements of their youngsters to their friends. Friday morning a group of these mothers was seen gathered together talking earnestly and the playing snapshots which were passed around with an air of great pride and approval.

People standing near the by became curious as to what the topic of conversation might be and finally Secretary Wood investigated and discovered that these were all proud grandmothers and the topic of conversation was, of course, grand children. Mr. Wood soon lined them up and the following women present were enrolled in the "Grandmother's Club": Mrs. John Olney of Grand Rapids, Mrs. A. Van Koesvring of Zeland, Mrs. Len W. Feghtner of Nashville, Mrs. Fred Kelator of Lima, Mrs. C. W. Hungeford of Detroit, Mrs. C. M. Howe of Muskegon, Mrs. P. Grim of Blanchard and Mrs. David Zell and dancing away and felt that Hubbell of Crosswell. Mrs. Vankover, this summer meeting had been worth while. Several of the new and old ones recognized the women, eligible ladies present and longed to have added one more memory eyes at this select group and Mrs. J. B. Mackins was heard to remark that there should be a "Mother-in-law" the Michigan Press.

Club" as she knew she could qualify as the most recent in that class.

Friday morning the ladies were all enthused over the program of sports and there were many entries in each event despite the inclement weather. In the afternoon five tables of bridge completed the two boxes of cards at the activities of the week end.

Mrs. Phil Rich of Midland won second prize. Mrs. Len Rogers of Camden seemed to be the only enthusiastic fatherly woman in the party but her enthusiasm made up for what the others lacked as she was undaunted by the rain and the unwillingness of the fish to bite.

Saturday the party drove to Sturgeon Point where a coast guard station was visited. Most everyone climbed the light house and enjoyed the view from the top. The women seemed greatly interested in the graphic description which the captain gave of the life on the coast guard station. During the life saving demonstration Mrs. Kaufman, of the Mich. Press office at Lansing, was the first to volunteer to be rescued in the breeches buoy which is used in bringing passengers ashore from ships at sea. Mrs. Rich and Mrs. Jashnow also enjoyed a ride in this novel conveyance.

So the three days passed all too quickly for the women members of the party with visiting, playing bridge, swimming, fishing, eating, and dancing away and felt that Hubbell of Crosswell. Mrs. Vankover, this summer meeting had been worth while. Several of the new and old ones recognized the women, eligible ladies present and longed to have added one more memory eyes at this select group and Mrs. J. B. Mackins was heard to remark that there should be a "Mother-in-law" the Michigan Press.

Chippewa Chief Deserts His Tribe Rather Than Quit Beloved Au Sable

East Michigan River, Famous in Poetry, Prose and Song,
Mecca For Noted Persons

(By E. M. T. Service)

Copyright, 1928.

MADE famous in prose and poetry, and favored with unrivaled scenic splendor along its course of 250 miles past timber-studded bluffs and grassy moors, bringing kaleidoscopic changes at every turn, the Au Sable in East Michigan is in winter a rendezvous for the hunter and trapper and in summer a romantic adventure for the tourist.

This great aquatic artery, rising in northeastern Michigan near the central part of the lower peninsula, fed by many lakes and countless streams and springs, has an unending charm. Men who have once floated down its waters return to its precincts year after year. An Englishman crossed the Atlantic year after year to fish the river. An Indian chief deserted his tribe rather than leave his fishing and hunting stream. Two Bay City, Michigan, men have made their forty-first annual consecutive pilgrimage to it together and are already planning for next May 1 their forty-second visit.

The river is not only historically and scientifically appealing but it has a pleasurable attraction. Postmaster General Harry S. New, of Washington, D. C., has been fishing the stream for 41 years. The late James Oliver Curwood, the novelist, who died in 1927, had a cottage on its banks in which he wrote many of his famous stories. Annually he had his guests prominent New York publishers and editors. Gene Stratton Porter, completed her last book in her cottage on the Au Sable and at the time of her tragic death in California had an office on 15 miles of frontage on this wonderful stream.

R. C. Durant, better known as "Chiff," son of W. C. Durant, founder of General Motors, has a cottage on the South Branch of the Au Sable. "Hobbes," young Durant, calls his place. Chiff Durant, known chiefly to the public as a successful automobile driver and aviator, plays the stock market from his Au Sable cottage. Freed from the distractions of civilization he has, from his Au Sable cottage, traded in issues for the number of 10,000 to 20,000 a day. This he achieves through the use of telegraph and telephone wires. Durant has several times been a competing driver in the automobile races at Indianapolis.

Au Sable, divorced himself from his tribe, when with the coming of the white man, the tribe quit the territory. Shoppemagon remained in the vicinity of the river for the remainder of his life and up to the time of his death a decade ago worked as guide and fisher in every line of endeavor. Noted men in every line of endeavor patronized regularly to assist him in Shoppemagon's hunting and fishing knowledge.

Today a hotel at Grayling, Michigan, near where the river plays that part of the lower peninsula, fed by many lakes and countless streams and springs, has an unending charm. Men who have once floated down its waters return to its precincts year after year. An Englishman crossed the Atlantic year after year to fish the river. An Indian chief deserted his tribe rather than leave his fishing and hunting stream. Two Bay City, Michigan, men have made their forty-first annual consecutive pilgrimage to it together and are already planning for next May 1 their forty-second visit.

A cross, seven inches long, brought to this country by the desert mission of the seventeenth century, was handed down to Shoppemagon and was preserved jealously by him almost up to the time of his death. The cross is now on display in the rooms of the Bay City Historical Society at Bay City.

The Au Sable flows through a part of the great Michigan Forest of 213,000 acres which is visited annually by residents from every state in the union, the provinces of Canada and even from England, France, Japan, and South American countries.

The canoe trip from Grayling to Lake Huron, into which the Au Sable empties, is one of the charming, intriguing matters for many of the tourist visitors. This trip may be made in company with guides whose entire lives have been spent on the river.

Van Ettan Lake Lodge

If you are planning a summer vacation, consider the advantages offered you at Van Ettan Lake Lodge, where every detail has been planned for your comfort and pleasure and where a standard of excellence is maintained that will please you.

"All of the pleasures of our door can be enjoyed under the most favorable conditions," says the owner, Mr. Frank G. Crowley. "Golfing, fishing, tennis, dancing, fishing, bathing, boating, picnicking, etc., are the most popular amusements; and for those who desire rest and quiet they will find this at Van Ettan. We do not encourage style, your room and fishermen's clothes will always meet our approval. We wish you to be comfortable as best places you as your pleasure is ours."

Van Ettan Lake Lodge is a thoroughly modern structure containing 60 guest rooms, a great many of which have private and connecting baths; every room with running hot and cold water and numerous corridors for guests desiring such accommodations.

Adjoining the lodge there are about 30 cottages for families or parties who desire to be by themselves and enjoy the homelike privileges afforded by them. These cottages have three sleeping rooms, large living room (some with fireplaces) and a complete bath room. All meals taken at the lodge and occupants of the cottages have full hotel service. The dining room will seat 250 people and the meals speak for themselves. White Fish and Mackinac trout are served twice daily on the tables within one hour after being taken from Lake Huron and prepared by an expert in this line. Continued and pasteurized milk and cream are always to be found on our tables in abundance and are furnished us by the celebrated Serradella Farm, which is reputed to be the most complete and best conducted dairy and stock farm in Michigan. All fruits and vegetables are served in season from the market gardens in this vicinity.

Van Ettan Lake is a body of water about 5 miles long and 1 1/2 miles wide, has an inlet and outlet and is always fresh and clear, being fed directly by springs. The fishing is exceptionally good. Black bass, walleyes, perch, pickerel, great northern pike, bluegills, catfish, rainbow and lake trout, landlock salmon and other varieties abound. The lake is stocked with several million fish each year and will not be allowed to deplete. Within a short distance of the lodge there are several excellent trout streams, which can be reached by auto, over splendid roads, where lovers of this sport may have their full satisfaction.

The nine-hole golf course laid out along the picturesque Au Sable River has been put in excellent playing condition by a professional and will continue to be improved each year until a degree of supremacy has been reached.

The bathing beach, right in front of the lodge, has a clear white sand bottom and a gradual slope, and is perfectly safe for either adults or children.

The roads are all improved and are kept in perfect condition. About two-thirds of the roads consist of cement pavement and the remainder excellent gravel.

The Sports Program

(By James S. Haskins)

Although the heavy rain drenched most of the contestants in the sports program planned for Friday morning, the long list of prizes proved such an incentive for the athletically inclined that the races were closely contested. O. V. LaBoiteux, Reading, had charge of the contests which were pulled off in front of the Van Ettan Lake Lodge.

The grand prize, a seven tube radio set presented by the Western Newspaper Union of Detroit, was awarded to F. E. Perlberg of Standish. Herb Wood, Bangor, was the winner of the special 100-yard dash event and thus captured the Field Manager's Trophy presented by L. W. Englund, Mackinac. Wood will have the trophy for a year and at next year's summer sailing will again be placed on the awards list. The editor winning it three times gains permanent possession of the award.

Sixteenth Century Mystery Ship, Buried In East Michigan Inland Lake, Believed To Be La Salle's "Griffin"

Poetical and Romantic Lake Solitude.

Copyright, 1928.

(E. M. T. Service)

By Joe Dermody

Lake Solitude, near East Tawas, Michigan, about three-quarters of a mile from Lake Huron, one of the great inland seas, has a skeleton of a mystery ship buried in the muck underneath its placid waters. How the derelict came into the waters of Lake Solitude is as much an enigma as the presence of the ship itself.

Lake Solitude is small and has no connection with any body of water except through a narrow two-foot stream that trickles into Tawas Bay and Lake Huron during the spring of the year and empties to a bay for part of the year.

The battered old boat was in Lake Solitude when the first white settlers arrived. It was a sizeable craft, about sixty feet long, with a deck. First settlers described it as having an ornately fashioned prow, broad bows and narrow high poop resembling the old Spanish, Portuguese and French caravel ships in the sixteenth century. Nails which held the withered old-hulk together were said to have been of copper.

On Lake's Bottom Centuries

The boat has been on the bottom of Lake Solitude for decades—perhaps centuries—under a pile of rotting upper timbers immersed in a cobwebby atmosphere of antiquity. The pioneers who came to the shores of Solitude nearly two centuries ago and wandered through the woods wondered ever since. Tourists from every state in the Union, from provinces of Canada, from European countries and even from the Orient, intrigued by the romance of the mystery, annually visit the isolated lake.

No one has positively ascertained what ship it was that rests upon Solitude's bottom or how it came to be in this inland lake. A sixty-foot vessel never sailed into Lake Solitude by way of the two-foot wide creek, bottomed with muck. It was a derelict before white men settled in Michigan and there is no living person who has been able to tear away the shroud of marine mystery surrounding it.

The waters of the lake have receded and the deck has rotted away, but the keel is said to be still intact, under the water, despite the constant attrition of lake waters, winds, ice and storms.

The explanation? Here is the only logical one, given some credence by historians.

Vessel Built in 1679

The story starts in that epoch of derring-do when English, French and Portuguese adventurers, explorers and voyageurs, impelled by the then human motives of conquest, discovery and regal reward, sailed the known and unknown seas seeking new worlds, gold, Arcadians and fountains of youth.

Nearly 250 years ago, when the penetratingly bitter cold of a January day in 1679 congealed the marrow of the most hardy a little band of approximately thirty men toiled wearily through the plains and naked forests on the hazardous and difficult portage around Niagara Falls. They made up the gallant and intrepid company which followed La Salle into the water wilderness of the Great Lakes.

On their backs they carried ship's furnishings from Chandlery of Paris and in their hearts the high purpose of blazing a trail into a strange and unexplored land. Above the falls they hewed great timbers and fashioned these timbers into the first sailing vessel to embark on the Great Lakes. On the vessel's prow was carefully carved the grotesque monster which gave the "Griffin" her name.

Cruise Ends in Tragedy

In August, the boat, which was destined to be the flagship of all the great fleet on the lakes today, set sail. But the cruise which had started so valiantly ended in tragedy—and mystery. It departed on August 7, with La Salle as commander and Father Hennepin as journalist. The Griffin made port at St. Ignace, where Father Marquette had established a mission eight years before. It cleared Michilimackinac for Green Bay September 2, where it took on a cargo of rich furs for La Salle's creditors in Montreal. La Salle sent the Griffin back to Niagara Falls while he continued on in canoes to Lake Peoria, Ill. The Griffin was lost in a storm and never heard of again, unless, perhaps, the wreck which lies in the waters of Lake Solitude is that of the ill-omened craft. The fate of the Argonauts is unknown.

Great Inland Sea Covered Areas

Lake Huron probably extended farther inland than the three-quarters of a mile of high timbered ridges which now separates it from Lake Solitude. It is definitely known that at one time what is now the northern tip of the Lower Peninsula of Michigan was covered by a great inland sea, and undoubtedly Lake Solitude is what geologists call a newland lake. So it is not impossible that the hulk of the Griffin was tossed upon the shores and the water later receded, leaving only a small lake. Pieces of metal salvaged from the old boat are of ancient workmanship.

As recently as 1900, skeletons were found in the vicinity of the boat, one with a sword thrust through it, which after much cleaning proved to bear the French Lillies and French motto and a sixteenth century date.

If the boat was the Griffin what romance hovers about the decayed old derelict? What history lies there in the salvaging? All those who know the truth perished with the Griffin.

And every summer, thousands of tourists visit Lake Solitude, described by one author-tourist as "a spot too poetic for anything but a honeymoon."

to dream about the ancient sailing vessel lying under the lake's surface, resisting the disintegrating process that always follows in the wake of disaster and neglect and which typifies to the visiting tourist from every section of the country the valorous and indomitable spirit of those voyagers of old who first planted the cross and civilization in this great territory.

Logging Camp at Grayling To Be Permanent Exhibit

The Hanson Pine tract near Grayling presented to the state something new as a memorial to Major Edward Hartwick, is to be the site of the reproduction of old-fashioned logging camp such as was used in Michigan more than a half century ago. Work on the building of this typical lumber camp is scheduled to start this month. The buildings will be constructed of logs grown on the site. Lumbering interests of the state will equip the building with all the tools used in the logging days from the first time when the first woodman's axe felt in Michigan up to the present time. The exhibit will be the only one of its kind in the country.

Bridge Tournament

A bridge tournament for the ladies, on Friday afternoon, "spangled" what would otherwise have been a gap in the program.

Because of weeping skies, side trips that in fair weather would have been very interesting, lost their attractiveness to many of the ladies who preferred the spacious lobby of the Lodge to braving the out of doors with "upriver" Pluvius "reliving" (spell it whichever way you prefer).

Thoughtful, as usual, C. W. Hungerford, of the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., suggested to the committee that he would provide a 5-pound box of good candy as a prize for a bridge contest and, modest as usual, he suggested that the name of the donor remain anonymous.

The announced contest greeted the announcement was evidence that the movement was a popular addition to the program. The committee later decided on two prizes for winner and runnerup, so instead of a 5 pound box of candy the prizes were changed to a 3 pound and a 2 pound box.

Mrs. Vivian Goldman, of Detroit, was the winner of the first prize in the spirited contest that followed, and Mrs. P. T. Rich of Midland, took the second box.

The rainy weather of Friday prevented taking of a group photograph until Saturday afternoon, by which time quite a number of the members had left the lodge. The total registration was about 200.

The Detroit International Bridge

"Ambassador" and "Suspension" Describe Its Spiritual Mission.

An Editorial Meditation by James Schermerhorn.

Sure, I'll dash off a piece for the Michigan Press Association about the Ambassador Bridge, that two mile conveyer now stretching its steel shape across between century-tested neighbors, Uncle Sam and the Daughters of the Snows!

But not a word about the commercial side of the project, foreshadowed by those two piers lifting their stark outlines to heaven at the water's edge of Detroit and of Sandwich, Tecumseh, Ojibway, Windsor, Walkerville, and Ford City, the border cities.

Joseph A. Bower, as instinctively sound a financier as Detroit ever bequeathed to New York, looked after all that when he turned vision into verity on the ruins of a rejected combined highway and railway undertaking and delivered to the Detroit International Bridge Company the rights acquired by him under his 1927 options from the American Transit Company and the Canadian Transit Company, together with revisions of powers obtained after the project took its present form.

Anything so thoroughgoing a builder as Mr. Bower, president of both companies, may have left unproved or unproven, touching the material returns from the linking of American business with the big safety to road, rail, and air, the American and Canadian industrial, automobile, lake, resort and Chamber of Commerce phraseologists.

Here is something to justify a "song of sixpence and pockets full of pence," figuratively and constitutionally speaking. And it will not be necessary for anyone to plead, "Let all rise and sing!" Thrilling, the imagination, this mighty enterprise is more like the fulfillment of Scripture where it says: "He hath put a new song into my mouth!"

In business I claim equality with Ephraim to whom Dinah complained: "Aw un'erstan' yuh done gone an' morn'g'ed our lil' home!" "Only temporary," Dinah, southerly said, "an' den it'll be forgotten." "All I know about finance," confessed a banker when they were discussing the repair of the silver purchase section of the Sherman Act, "is that it takes two names besides my own to make my note good."

This pen disclaims any pretensions to fiscal knowledge. It has no grasp upon modern commercialism. What it knows about business is highly little, and that little is depressing. It agrees with what the editor of Life said in a recent comment on the way the world is tending, when it gets it full in the face from a full-page advertisement or fight for toe-hold in the shopping district:

"Somehow there is a disagreeable sense nowadays of everything being for sale!"

Isaiah anticipated the prizes hung up for best spellers, peace essays, most perfect human forms and faces and cleverest name for a remedy for housemaid's knee when he cried: "Everyone loveth gifts and followeth after rewards."

But that is neither here nor there. Or rather it is on both sides of the sapphire strait that is being spanned by this colossal carry-over. The spirit of getting while the getting is good, is it? The noontide luncheon interpreters say it is the mainspring of progress. Even in the sanctuary there are said to be among the "thousand tongues to sing" those who intone:

"Bring forth the royal diadem And crown it king of all!" But from this fourteenth-floor attic, prepared place of exile for a publisher or so unsophisticated as to attempt "a daily fit for the home," I can catch above the leafy outline of Belle Isle and the widening solidity of the Border Cities, the smiling uplands of the Dominion, rising entrancingly to the horizon.

Of a truth it is a fair country, forever refreshing to the eye that traces its pastoral undulations; and population and prosperity may be coming with the steady encroachment of the shore communities upon the open of the Snows!

AMBASSADOR BRIDGE is "cre-dentialed to break down detachment that breeds distrust. By many minutes it brings two shores closer. No Ambassador means the absence of close and friendly relations. When an Ambassador is established it is a sign that good understanding and mutual-ity are restored.

Not only traffic but International-ism, built by Columbia-Canada thoroughfares. Barriers are burned away by the fires of affiliation.

The AMBASSADOR BRIDGE is a fine symbolism.

So is SUSPENSION BRIDGE—the longest in the world.

It signifies that separation is sus-pended—that hatefulness, inharmony, aloofness are hung up.

Suspended, hung up permanently—which is a long and desirable SUS-PENSION!

The Rush-Bagot Treaty, maintaining for over a century unbroken peace along 3,000 miles of unfortified frontier, has at once a Memorial and an Ally in this AMBASSADOR SUS-PENSION BRIDGE.

For preserving International tran-quility its towering piers are better than Planes, its Calvades of bound-ary-crossers better than Cavalry, its Millions of Motors better than Mor-tars.

THE LONGEST SUSPENSION BRIDGE IN THE WORLD LINKING DETROIT AND THE CANADIAN BORDER CITIES

an Announcement

To the People of the Commonwealths of Canada and the United States—in Particular to the Citizens of the State of Michigan and the Province of Ontario

THE New Ambassador International Bridge across the Detroit River will be open for traffic in mid-summer of 1929. So many people (individuals and corporations) have asked the question, "when will the new bridge be ready?"—that it has been considered policy to publish from time to time a summary of the progress being achieved—an abridgment of the bridge. As most of the inquiries have come from firms and various enterprises planning to use the new bridge in the daily transaction of their business, this data is released July 11, 1928.

At the present rate of progress, the Ambassador International Bridge will be open to traffic in the mid-summer of 1929.

The mild and open winter permitted unexpected progress in constructing the foundations for the steel towers and anchorages. Now that the work below ground is completed it is possible to schedule with confidence the time required for the remaining steps in construction, based on the experience with other large suspension bridges recently constructed.

The anchorage for the cables on both sides of the river are made of solid masses of concrete equal in height to a twenty-two story building, of which the equivalent of fourteen stories will be below ground and eight above. On the American side the anchorage is located at West Jefferson Avenue and 21st Street in Detroit. On the Canadian side, at London and Huron Line Road in Sandwich.

The massive steel tower on the American side is now complete. The Canadian tower will be completed July 20th. These towers extend to a height of 383 feet above the Detroit River and may be compared in height with the new Buhl Building.

The preparatory work for weaving the large suspension cables will start the first part of August, at which time eight temporary cables will be stretched from anchorage to anchorage and over the tops of the steel towers. Foot bridges will be built on these temporary cables and the work of constructing the large cables, consisting of stretching over 14,000 single wires from anchorage to anchorage, will be done from the foot bridge cables.

All of the property for the project, including that required for the approaches and terminals on both sides of the river, has been acquired.

Both the Canadian and American Governments have approved the general arrangements for the inspection by Customs and Immigration Officers. To meet these requirements it was necessary to provide an area of about seven acres on the American side and more than eight acres on the Canadian side. On the Detroit side all the land between Howard, Porter, 21st and 22nd Streets was necessarily acquired for this purpose. On the Canadian side a strip one-half block wide, extending along Patricia Road from Wyandotte to Walnut Streets, together with more than the equivalent of a city block area between Patricia and Huron Church Line Roads, has been acquired in the Town of Sandwich.

THE TERMINAL spaces required by the Governments on each side of the River may appear unduly large, but a detailed study of the needs proved the necessity of providing room for Administration Buildings for Bridge Officers, Customs and Immigration Officers, for Warehouses, Excise Buildings and thirteen inspection "islands" at both ends of the bridge. Here traffic in twenty-six lanes may be examined simultaneously.

TOLLS—These necessarily can only be definitely established contemporaneously with the opening of the bridge for public traffic, but it is our pleasure to announce that in no event will single trip tickets for other than commercial vehicles be in excess of fifty cents (50c) including driver and five cents (5c) for each additional passenger.

The maximum rates for busses and commercial vehicles of various weights will be announced later.

Commutation tickets will be sold, and it is contemplated that commutation rates will be substantially lower than the rate to be established for single trip tickets.

More than fifty years of the white man's effort to bridge this stream are culminating now in the building of this bridge.

Wide open mile after mile

Hour after hour, the Pontiac Six reels off the miles with safety for its passengers and itself.

Its sturdy Fisher bodies—its rugged construction—its big, four-wheel brakes—these are features which contribute to the safety and comfort of passengers at all times.

As for the car itself, a full-pressure oiling system lubricates moving engine parts. And such advancements as crankcase ventilation and the thermostatically controlled cross-flow radiator protect it from the wear and tear of sustained high speeds.

Today's Pontiac is one low-priced six which needs no pampering. Its record proves its ability to travel wide open mile after mile.

Mr. and Mrs. Olsen were former residents of Grayling and have many friends here who are glad to have them back for a visit. With them at the lake is the latter's daughter, Mrs. Earl Woodburn and children of Detroit.

Mrs. Chas. Craven and daughters, Mrs. E. L. Preston and Miss—Lola were called to Flint Sunday by the death of Rex L. Bliss, the former's nephew of that place. Mrs. Craven returned home Monday accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Dunn, Mrs. Geo. Dunn and daughter, Mrs. Preston and Miss Lola returned Tuesday with Lieut. Preston via air.

Mrs. Adolph Peterson and daughter Natalia, and her grandmother, Mrs. Raymond and uncle, William Daltou of West Branch, who had been her guests, left Saturday by motor for Lake Leelanau to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Brewster and family. Jennie Peterson, who had been visiting her grandparents returned home with her mother and sister Tuesday evening.

H. C. McKinley, the veteran printer, got quite a surprise recently Monday when he was called to the funeral of his wife and daughter and mother drove up to his door. Forty-two years ago when a boy in his teens Mr. Taylor learned the rudiments of printing in Mack's Gaylor office. Mr. Taylor is now engaged in making work in southern California and has been in Los Angeles. The party were on their way north to Gaylord and points in the upper peninsula.

J. Fairman, the sign painter, just received a fine sign for Grayling Box Co. Their name and business appear along the side of the building in letters four feet high, and can be seen from long distances away. They cover a surface of 1,100 square feet. He also just finished some fifty window signs for the Peterson Jewelry store, and now he is busy decorating the exterior of the Avalanche office. We are sure it is going to look good.

Andrew Hawitt, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fletcher of the Military reservation, is the proud possessor of the Rolls-Royce toy automobile, a contest for which has been on at J. F. Smith's Filling Station. Tuesday was the last day and Andrew took home her prize that evening. Each gallon of gas bought at this filling station gave some youngster so much mileage in the race and Andrew had the most mileage to her credit. It was a lively contest and many local boys and girls took part in it. The little miss is very pleased with her automobile, and desires to thank her friends for their support.

The people of Grayling will be pleased to learn of the graduation of Percy Failing, son of Mrs. Ellen Failing of Beaver Creek township, from the University of Michigan. Percy completed the course in conservation, receiving an A. B. degree. For the summer he is working in forestry work at Wallowa, Wash. It is his intention to return in September and resume his studies at the University and hopes that within about six months more of study to obtain his degree. It is a pleasure to find our boys succeeding so well, especially when it is by their personal efforts that they are enabled to attend the higher seats of learning.

MILITARY BAND TO GIVE CONCERTS

COURT YARD FRIDAY AND TUESDAY EVENINGS

The people of Grayling are again fortunate in having among us our National Guard and with their usual fine bands. The 202d Coast Artillery regiment band of Chicago has kindly consented to give us a number of concerts again this year. On Friday evening they will render a concert at the court yard. And again on Tuesday will give another concert at the same place.

The people of Grayling and surrounding towns are invited to be in attendance at these concerts. All these friends ask is our appreciation for their favors, and we know that this will be given freely and with applause. A concert will also be given at Mercy Hospital while they are in the city.

A GIRL SCOUTS' IDEA OF CAMP LIFE

How can twelve girls go camping on $22.50? We did it and had plenty of supplies and had Mr. Webb leave us 4 qts. of milk each morning.

Veronica Lovell wrote to Col. Pearson and got permission to get 3 tents and 1 fly tent from the Lake. We had our tents pitched at Lake Margrethe across from the Soldiers' Hospital, which is an ideal spot. Mr. and Mrs. Morris from Ypsilanti and Miss Velma Rich from Indiana were our guests. Mr. Morris is a champion swimmer and gave the girls swimming lessons. We went in swimming three times a day, but were not allowed to go without Mr. Morris.

The nurses, Miss Keenan and Mrs. Evans, were attending to their work but were with us at night while Mr. Morris and Miss Rich were with us during the day. Some of the mothers were out most every day and brought us such foods as baked beans, cake, fried chicken, etc. that we could not prepare over the camp fire.

We had a glorious time for two weeks even though it rained several days.

We had a portable Victrola so when it rained we had lots of music and played many games. We also went for hikes. Each evening a tent would give a show so we had a planned entertainment every evening.

The Girl Scouts.

E. E. EVANS DIES AT WEST BRANCH

Edward E. Evans, prominent pioneer citizen of West Branch, passed away at his home last Friday. Last January he suffered a stroke of apoplexy which left him much enfeebled, both mentally and physically. He was 65 years of age.

Mr. Evans was the pioneer seed man of this section, having started the first seed house and the first elevator at West Branch. He was a great help to the farming communities by urging the use of seed and selling them pure and cleaner seed for planting purposes. He was very much interested in improvement of the farm products, especially grain and alfalfa, and spent much of his time and money for that purpose. Because of his love and understanding of Nature, and the great out-of-doors, he foresaw, long ago, the effect of the encroachment of civilization on our forests, streams and lakes and their wild life, and the necessity of protecting by legislation, the fish and game that were so precious and so vital to the health and well-being of the farmers and settlers on the lands along the rivers and lakes, and he became the first, foremost and best informed conservationist of Michigan, and perhaps in the nation. He was a well-known writer on these topics. Although he never held any public office, he was intensely interested in favor of conservation.

LOVELLS NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Goff and children, who have been living at San Diego, Calif., have returned to Lovell to spend the summer at their home on Big Creek. Their many friends were glad to hear of their return.

Among the Lovell folks who helped to celebrate the Fourth at the Lovell were Mr. and Mrs. Percy Build and family, Ed Kullberg and children, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Nephew and family, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Duby and nephew Ray, Fred Knecht, Mr. and Mrs. Mike McCormick and John Harle.

Miss Vera Nephew spent the Fourth at Cadillac and the remainder of the week. She was accompanied home by Glen Gregg of that city.

The Underhill Club was burned Sunday morning at eight o'clock. It was a great misfortune to Lovells as it was such a beautiful building.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kuehl and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Magown and family spent the Fourth with their mother, Mrs. Jessie Kuehl at the Cabin.

Miss Doris Small of Mio is spending the week with Mrs. Joseph Duby, Julius Kuehl and a friend from Ann Arbor spent the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pocheon. Albert Pocheon, Jr., of New York is also visiting his parents.

When it comes to hearing the speeches at national conventions a radio is a lot better equipment now than a ticket for a seat in the gallery.

MRS. STANNARD TAKES LEIGHTON DRUG STORE

IS GRANTED PERMIT TO SELL PATENT AND PROPRIETARY MEDICINES

Mrs. Annette Stannard has taken over the drug store business of the late Dr. Leighton of Frederic. Not being a registered pharmacist it would be impossible for her to fill prescriptions but the Michigan Board of Pharmacy has given her the right to handle and sell patent and proprietary medicines.

The store has been redecorated, and the stock re-arranged, and is in good condition. There is a well assorted stock of the remedies usually needed by families, also a large stock of drug store sundries, such as syringes, rubber bottles, absorbent cotton, bandages, toilet soaps and hundreds of other articles.

Besides these lines there is a small assortment of fish rods, lines, reels, hooks and other fishing tackle, ammunition, etc. Mrs. Stannard, who is a sister-in-law of the late Dr. Leighton, intends to keep up a stock that will supply the needs of the people of that part of the county. Later she designs adding a line of ladies furnishings. The store and the stock looks spic and span and no doubt its owner will receive a good patronage.

LOSE SECOND CHILD IN MONTH

Mr. and Mrs. Axel Larson, losing two children in little more than a month, seems more than one can bear. On June 4th their little son Sunny Gerald died of spinal meningitis, and Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock their oldest child Gloria, age 4 years passed away following a tonsil and adenoid operation performed at Mercy Hospital that morning. The funeral for the little tot was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Rev. Karl of Frederic conducting the service. The remains were laid to rest beside those of her brother in Elmwood cemetery.

Both father and mother are grief-stricken over their double loss, and the sincere sympathy of the entire community are with them in their sorrow. Mrs. Larson, the mother, has lost a brother, her father just a week or so ago, and her two children within a few months.

Medieval Versus Modern Student Life

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

PROFESSOR ROBERT F. SEYMOUR of the University of Illinois has just made a translation of a paper of school magazines written by one Peter Schiele, professor of Greek in the University of Leipzig in 1547. These paragraphs are not intended as a review of the book but simply to show how little the point of view of the modern student has changed from that held by students four hundred years ago. They employed the same tricks in Leipzig in the early sixteenth century as are employed today—they had much the same round of amusements, the same critical attitude toward their teachers and their courses of study, they were required to pursue and got into scholastic and moral difficulties similar to those of the modern Middle West student of today. Translated into present time vernacular the students at Leipzig in 1500 might very well have been walking up John Street at the University of Illinois, or in front of the Union building at Ann Arbor discussing the latest show at the Orpheum or picking to pieces the last lecture in Latin 15.

"What are you going to do tonight?" "One undergraduate using another."

"Oh, go to show, I suppose." "Anything new in town?"

"Some new dance we've been used to all year—dancing, performing bear, to know the kind. You'd better come and go along."

"I'd like to but I'm broke." "Oh, we can beat our way in. I know the door man, and he'll let us by."

These aren't the exact words, but put into twentieth century language the meaning is the same. Pleasure and sport were as much in the young fellow's mind then as now.

There was discussion on the food they were getting, which was evidently considerably more meager than that now, for the medieval student had little ready money to spend on anything and depended largely on chance or charity for something to eat. There was discussion of the landlady who was not always to the liking of her lodgers, and there was as much interest in the Christmas holiday as there is today among those undergraduates who, no matter how long the vacation may be, always make a strenuous effort to have it longer.

"This is the day when the committee on discipline meets," one boy says to another as they are walking along the street.

"What do they do?" the other inquires, being newly arrived and not familiar with college customs.

"They bring you to trial for violating some of the college regulations and fire you if you are guilty."

"How can they know what we do; they surely are not so wise."

"Oh, they have spies who follow us around, see what we do, and then report to the faculty."

The statement probably had as much basis of truth then as it has today, or had when I was in college, and heard the same things said. No undergraduate has ever given a professor credit for intelligence enough to know what was going on in undergraduate life unless some one told him. We don't change much.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Two Italians Fly From Rome to Brazil, Establishing New Distance Record.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

TWO Italian aviators, Captain Ferri and Major Iel Price, starting from Rome in a Fiat-motored Savoia biplane, headed for South America on a nonstop flight, reached Brazil in safety, establishing a new record. When they landed near Port Natal they had flown about 4,485 miles, bettering the distance record of 3,000 miles made by Chamberlain and Levine by about 570 miles. These aviators already held the duration flight record of 58 hours, 38 minutes and 28 seconds. When the flyers passed over St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, approximately 3,000 miles from Rome, they had been up 22 hours with the remarkable average of more than 140 miles an hour. They made the 1,000 miles from there across the South Atlantic ocean at almost equal speed. On the way they were in radio communication with the transship Philharmonic and said all was well with them. The flight was made under the auspices of the Italian military aviation service.

ONE of the extraordinary tragedies of aviation occurred last week over the North Sea. Capt. Alfred Lowenstein, world famous Belgian aviator and pilot of one of the world's best planes in the world, disappeared from his Fokker plane in which he was crossing from Creighton, England, to Brussels. It was believed that he had mistaken the door by which passengers left the plane for the one to the washroom, and opening the former, stepped out into space and fell into the sea.

Lowenstein's wealth was estimated to be only less than that of Henry Ford and the Rockefellers.

He controlled steamship lines, was one of the chief stockholders in the Belgian railway system, owned mines from mines in Silesia, steel furnaces in the north of Spain, coal properties in the Saar basin and in the Ruhr, and immense rubber plantations in the Congo. Two years ago he started the world by offering the Belgian government a loan of $50,000,000 for two years without interest in order that the Belgian franc might be stabilized. The offer was refused. Shortly after this he offered to lend France a like amount at interest of 2 per cent. Quite recently Captain Lowenstein spent several weeks in the United States and Canada on business, traveling most of the time by airplane. He was an enthusiast on aviation and owned a number of his planes which were equipped with office desks and carried a staff of secretaries so he could work while flying.

Immediately after the capitalist's disappearance was reported there were rumors that he had committed suicide because of financial failures. It was later learned that these rumors were derived and were based on reports that he was secretly landed in France from his plane and had been met by an automobile which took him to a place of retreat. On European stock exchanges the Lowenstein shares fell rapidly.

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

HOOVER spent Independence day in rest and quiet recreation, but gave up the rest of the week to preparations for his departure from Washington, winding up with a conference on Saturday with prominent eastern Republicans for the purpose of establishing a campaign organization in that section of the country. It was announced that Mr. Hoover would deliver his resignation from the cabinet to President Coolidge at the summer White House on the Brule river. Further than that his plans were not made public. His notification and speech of acceptance will be made in California, the first week in August.

Governor Smith made two speeches on the Fourth of July, one at Tammany hall and the other from the steps of the city hall in New York city, but in both of them he avoided partisan politics, making only passing mention to his nomination for the Presidency. Then he went to Albany to attend to state business. His plans called for a campaign conference with Senator Robinson, his running mate, and the Democratic national committee this week. Governor Smith also will be notified of his nomination early in August, and it is asserted that in his speech of acceptance he will make a further pronouncement on his position in the matter of prohibition. Until then he declined to reply to Joseph Daniels, who, while calling on all Democrats to support Smith, said Al had not been given any leadership by the Democratic party to seek to change the Volstead act and that any attempt to weaken the prohibition laws must be fought in congress.

Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcohol and a leader in the Anti-Saloon league, issued a summons to all friends of prohibition to unite against Smith, asserting that the country faces "what promises to be the greatest 'wet and dry' battle that the nation has ever seen." National Prohibition party chiefs seemed to be at odds as to the party's national convention called for July 10 and 11 in Chicago. Some desired to nominate some prominent dry Democrat, preferably from the South, while others believed it would be best to endorse Hoover. The Anti-Saloon league, scheduled to hold a convention in Asheville, N. C., at the same time, was said not to be co-operating at all with the Prohibition party.

If there is dissension among the dries, there is still greater dissension among the men who profess to be the leaders of the Middle-West farmers. Gov. Adam Steffen, the publisher of Nebraska; George N. Peck, chairman of the corn belt committee formed in 1924, and some others declared the Democratic plank on farm taxes was satisfactory to agriculturists and far superior to the Republican plank, and they predicted the corn belt farmers would vote for Smith. A fourth candidate came promptly from Senator Brookhart and Governor Hann of Iowa, who accused Peck of double crossing Lowden and denied the assertions that the farmers were going Democratic. Meanwhile men who think they know the mind of the farmer continue to assert that those who have been Republicans in the past will support Hoover, and those who have been Democratic will cast their votes for Smith.

JEAN LAUSSEIER, thirty-six years old, a French Canadian salesman from Springfield, Mass., achieved notoriety and perhaps fame last week by going over Niagara falls in a rubber and steel ball designed by himself. Taken from the river a few hundred feet below the cataract, he was found to be uninjured beyond a few bruises on face and shoulders. He was the third person to perform this feat and live. The others were Bobbie Leach and Annie Edison Taylor, both of whom performed the stunt in barrels. Lausseier's rubber ball was eleven feet in diameter. Inside the outer covering was a canvas lining. Then came a steel framework and another canvas lining and inside all a harness-like arrangement in which the occupant strapped himself. He carried in tanks enough oxygen to keep him alive forty hours.

GERMANY'S model of a treaty for strengthening the means of preventing war was adopted by the committee on security and arbitration of the League of Nations in Geneva, and was ordered sent to all governments in preparation for a general discussion of the subject at the September assembly of the league. The essence of the so-called German treaty is that the nations will bind themselves in advance to accept the recommendations of the league council in the case of a threat of war and to refrain from measures likely to aggravate the dispute. Its object is the same as that of the proposed Kellogg pact—namely, the outlawry of war.

CHIEF feature of the celebration of the Fourth of July by Americans in Paris was the dedication of the beautiful triumphal arch in Eiffel Viaduct in memory of 67 American members of the Lafayette Escadrille who fell in the service of France. Paul Painleve, minister of war, delivered the address to a great throng that included Ambassador Herrick, Marshal Foch and other notables. Ten French army planes draped overhead and as the last salute was fired and taps blown, tribute was paid to each grave in the marble-lined crypt, where the dead bidden lie four by four in the order in which they fell.

Americans in Shanghai had as a part of their celebration a Wild-West rodeo given by the marines, the first ever seen in the Orient. Czechoslovakia made the day, which was also the tenth anniversary of its own independence, the occasion for the dedication of a monument to Woodrow Wilson in Prague.

CHADIA'S threats of demanding complete separation from Serbia because of the killing of two Croatian deputies in the parliament resulted in the resignation of the Yugo-Slavian government. The king began negotiations with party leaders with a view to forming a coalition government that would satisfy the demands of Croatia, Bosnia and Herzegovina for equal representation with Serbia. Italy announced that she would refuse to accept the ratification of the disputed Neumo treaty unless it was approved by the Croatian deputies.

ENCOURAGEMENT of foreign immigration and capital are the aims of a bill drawn up by officials of the Mexican government for the purpose of rehabilitating Mexican national finances. The measure has been approved by President Calles and also by Alvaro Obregon, who was unanimously elected President of the republic. The proposed law throws overboard most of the disabilities of foreigners and foreign capital. General Obregon's election was unopposed, as he was the sole surviving candidate. His supporters will be in control of the senate, chamber of deputies and state legislatures.

HERMANN MUELLER, the new socialist chancellor of Germany, announced to the Reichstag that Germany is ready for a final discussion of her full reparation debts. "The Dawes plan has been carried out for almost four years and has prepared the ground for a definite settlement," Chancellor Mueller stated. "The exact date of the final agreement remains vague, but matters have progressed so far that all parties concerned are convinced that a definite debt settlement is not only desirable, but also possible."

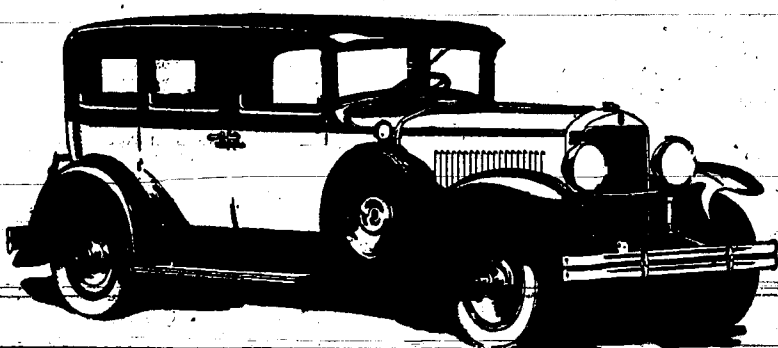

In stating his policies Herr Mueller said: "We will give up all thought of revenge. This is the foundation of our policy and starting from this standpoint we shall endeavor to reconquer for Germany the same rights that other nations have."

YOUNG CHANG HSUEH-LIANG, son of the late Marshal Chang, has succeeded to the dictatorship of Manchuria and has made overtures to the Nationalist leaders at Peking looking to the unification of China. General Chiang Kai-shek, commander of the Nationalist armies, says that Nanking will become the capital of the country immediately, even if the foreign diplomats should refuse to move there.

REVISED but unofficial figures give first place in the international balloon race, which started from Detroit to the United States army balloon with the French bag Blanchard second and the German balloon Barman third. The bags all landed in Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina.

World war veterans, as a government activity, came to an end last week when the last of the 128,000 men who have been trained to be self-supporting, or nearly so, at a total cost of more than $800,000,000, received their

COMMON MISTAKE

To many merchants the purpose of advertising is to move unwanted merchandise—the "stickers" that nobody cares to buy. Advertising should not be saddled with a job like that. It should be used to sell desirable merchandise that is in good demand.

And above all, it should be used to sell the personal or service side of your business.

PAVED STREETS SAVE MONEY

Highland, Illinois, a city of three thousand population, this spring embarked on a program to pave 14 or 15 miles of its streets. According to the mayor this will actually save the municipality money, because of the tremendous upkeep cost of dirt roads. In the last 11 years their maintenance has cost $160,000.

It has been the repeated experience of cities and towns of all sizes that money spent for hard-surfacing dirt streets, or salvaging worn-out paved ones is not an expense. On the contrary it is an economy and a dividend-paying investment. In our modern life good roads and streets are as necessary as telephones and electricity.

STUDIES WOOD PULP PROPOSITION

Lansing, July 9.—The pulp wood industry both in Michigan and other states and even in Canada has taken an interest in the work that is being accomplished by the Economic Land Survey Division of the Department of Conservation. An expert from a Canadian company recently visited the Department to scan some of the maps that are already available. He found that he could determine almost exactly where Michigan and how much available in Michigan and how much would be ready for marketing in years to come. Pulpwood timber grows rapidly so the companies are interested in learning the nature of the land, its extent and the type of growth thereon. All this information and much more is contained on the maps being turned out.
